CZAR IS ILL.

An Osseous Growth, Combined With Vertigo.
St. Petersburg, Jan. 17.—Yesterday a summons was sent to Berlin for Professor Bergmann, the distinguished German surgeon, to come to this city to perform an operation upon the czar to prevent the extension of an osseous excess which has appeared in the region of the cranium. This trouble is said to have been induced by a fanatical Japanese when he was traveling in Japan in 1891. His majesty was visiting the town of Otsu on May 11 of that year, when he was making a tour of the world and was upon the palace of the fanatic, who would probably have inflicted more serious injuries had it not been for Prince George of Greece, who rode to the rescue and who knocked the assailant down. This osseous growth, which Professor Bergmann will remove, has combined with vertigo, caused the attacks of vertigo from which the czar has suffered for some time.

SOLITUDE AND SILENCE.

Revolting System of Prisons in England.Lynn, Mass., Jan. 17.—Hon. John E.
Redmond, M. P., who is visiting in this city, was this afternoon ordered an informal reception by about 150 of the leading citizens at the Clover club.
Mr. Redmond, at the request of the chairman of the reception committee, made a brief address, in which he said that what interested him most in this country was the prison system, which was far ahead of that of England. The prison was in his opinion the most brutal in the world and might be declared as a system of solitude and silence. The entire system was so brutal and revolting that it drove many men insane from the terror inflicted upon them. The treatment of the Irish prisoners in the British prisons was something too horrible to contemplate. Of the 100,000 prisoners of these prisoners, but three of them died of the hardships they underwent, and five were driven insane, two of the latter being Dr. Gallagher and George A. Whitehead, who are in this country in the care of their friends.
Mr. Redmond said that he once visited John Daly in Portland prison, and though the case broke him down, the news of the death of a very dear friend, Daly, broke down at the news and when he recovered Mr. Redmond wished to give him a small photograph of the friend and a lock of his hair, but the prison officials would not allow it.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

WARREN FOSTER'S LECTURE AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.Opposes the Death Penalty Because It Is Wrong in Principle and Destructive in Practice—A Somewhat Racy Manner of Treating the Subject.Hon. Warren Foster delivered an address on capital punishment at the Grand Opera House last evening, which was intended as a reply to the Rev. Dr.
Wishard's utterances on the same subject. The attendance was large and Mr. Foster received frequent applause during the two hours which he spoke.He opened by reading a poem entitled "The World Moves." After acknowledging that capital punishment is an individual capacity, and that no one would be responsible for what he said, he proceeded by saying that he was opposed to capital punishment.
He said it is inhuman, that it is unnecessary, (3) because it does no good; (4) because it does great harm.He declared it to be wrong in principle and destructive in practice. He gave some account of the meeting recently held at which Dr. Wishard read his paper on capital punishment. He said he was not in favor of the death penalty, but he was in favor of the death penalty having been given to Moses, and that the Utah legislature should stand by it.WAS THE MOSAIC LAW RE-PEALED?The speaker admitted the premises, but denied the conclusions. He insisted that if a part of the Mosaic law had not been repealed, possibly none would have been repealed, therefore, those who favored capital punishment should insist on having it all repealed. He quoted the Bible as saying that the Mosaic law was repealed and that the law of love was put in its place.The speaker then said that he refused to accept the Bible as an infallible guide, for the reason that he did not know the name of a single writer of the Bible, and held that the Pentateuch could not have been written by Moses, as is claimed.Mr. Foster recounted the exploit of Jacob, in which he defrauded his brother Esau out of his birthright and blessing by impersonating him. He said that the Mosaic law regarding the use of meat, in which the Israelites were forbidden to eat themselves, but were permitted to give it to the stranger, to eat, or sell it to an alien. He insisted that this law had not been repealed and, therefore, the legislature should change the crematory to a sausage factory at once.

HIS IDEA OF CHRIST.

In speaking of Christ, he declared that he was a much less than an angel; that he was a man ahead of the times; that he refused to be governed by the ideas prevalent in his day; that in Christ was a free thinker and an idealist; that the form of his age, the Ingersoll of his day.The speaker insisted that a man at best is an erring creature; that all men are brothers; that all are creatures of circumstances; and that it is a duty devolving upon the more fortunate to use every means to lift up the unfortunate.Taken as a whole, his speech was well received.

Rain Does Much Damage.

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 17.—A steady downpour of rain which fell from New York to the Gulf of Mexico, and which is blowing off Lake Michigan 30 miles an hour, has done much damage to the crops in the Muskegon lake region, and is expected to go on tonight.

At Noon Tomorrow.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Hon. Thomas C. Platt will be formally elected United States senator at noon Tuesday. The legislature will meet in joint session in the assembly chamber at that time for that purpose.

Never Before Equalled.

London, Jan. 17.—The Chronicle has a dispatch from Mendoza, Argentine Republic, stating that Zurbriggen, the Swiss explorer, who is now in the country, has just completed his expedition which went to South America for the purpose of ascending Mount Aconcagua.

Canton, O., Jan. 17.—The usual quiet of Sunday at the McKinley home was undisturbed today. Cabinet making ceased, the major's study was deserted, the literature of paper had disappeared and the president-elect rested and went to church.

Webb Hayes, a son of the late president, dined with Mr. and Mrs. McKinley, and took for the day the afternoon train returning home on a late train.

Now that Senator Sherman has accepted the portfolio of state public interest seems to center upon the appointment of the cabinet. Major McKinley is very frequently and earnestly considered in connection with this important position.
